

Chapples Park Parc Chapples

Public parks are often a space for ornamental trees and shrubs so we can enjoy their beauty and shade.

These are not trees that we find in a forest, but still serve a purpose. They are food for urban wildlife such as squirrels, chipmunks, skunks and crows.

Les parcs publics sont souvent un espace pour les arbres et arbustes d'ornement pour que nous puissions profiter de leur beauté et de leur ombrage.

Ce ne sont pas les arbres que nous trouvons dans une forêt, mais ils ont un but. Ils sont de la nourriture pour la faune urbaine comme les écureuils, tamias, mouffettes et corneilles.

WHEN I VISITED, THE MOON WAS:

In the autumn crab apples will fall from the tree and animals will take them for their winter food. If you have ever eaten a crab apple you would know they are very sour. Let's leave these crab apples for the animals and birds.

Clue: Go to the north end of the Chapples Ring Road. Look near the trees at the trail junction.
